

Abstract of the Disclosure

Golf Training Device with a golf club with, a standard golf club handle portion, a shaft portion, a head portion. The head portion is shaped like a concave hemispheric scoop that can removably retain a golf ball. A preferred embodiment includes the top of the shaft having external threads that can interface with internal threads located in the bottom of the handle so that the user can adjust the overall length of the golf club.